Jeron's Clinical Educator will Reach Nurse Leaders at AONE Conference in Indianapolis Next Week

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

April 4, 2018 - Niles, Illinois - AONE (American Organization of Nurse Executives) Annual Conference will see thousands of nursing professional attendees gather to discuss industry topics, best practices, collaborative partnerships and changing roles in healthcare. The AONE Annual Meeting puts Jeron Electronic Systems, Inc. in front of these nurse leaders and decision makers.

This year, Jeron has added a Clinical Educator to their staff; translating the features of Provider® 680 and Provider® 790 Nurse Call platforms into beneficial workflows to each healthcare team. Debra Braun, RN, will be in AONE Booth #721, and is ready to discuss Nurse Call benefits and how technology can enhance workflow (to all hospital stakeholders) and affect positive change in patient care and safety.

In the exhibit hall, Jeron hopes to continue to build relationships with key contacts in Nurse Leadership. Conducting strong conversations with the very people that will use their Nurse Call communications to positively impact the way they work.

Exhibit Hall hours:

Friday, April 13, 2018

10:00am - 3:00pm

Saturday, April 14, 2018

9:30am - 1:00pm

Referring to Jeron's Provider Nurse Call Systems, Debra remarks that "With hospital staff shortages and the need for facilities to leverage advanced technology, Nurse Call must go beyond basic alerting functionality and include integrated workflow and safety features. I've seen first-hand how a properly implemented Provider 790 Nurse Call System can directly affect the quality of care and safety for the patient. By using advanced communications, Nurse Leaders can deliver safer, higher patient care."
