

New Features for Pro-Alert™ 570 Nurse Call System for Senior Living

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

NILES, IL – July 10, 2018 - - Pro-Alert 570 Nurse Call System by Jeron Electronic Systems, Inc. provides senior living and sub-acute care environments easy-to-use resident to caregiver alerting and communications. Two-way audio, reporting analytics, and wander management capabilities are included in this reduced wiring system.

Including a full complement of beside, bathroom, and emergency stations, the system gives residents easy access to place calls. This allows caregivers to quickly and accurately triage active calls from residents. All key system components are continuously monitored to ensure residents and caregivers that every station will always be available to place a call; especially for an emergency situation.

Pro-Alert's Activity Reporting feature provides a clear picture of staff responses, highlights bottlenecks, and any call and response issues that could adversely affect resident safety and satisfaction. Also, wireless pendants that place automatic calls and daily reminder check-ins adds much needed safety measures to a skilled care environment.

Pro-Alert Nurse Call uses flexible and direct means of alerting and communications. Overhead Paging from Staff Consoles located in key areas along with wireless pocket page alerts to mobile caregivers means instant notification of routine or emergency calls from residents. These instantaneous alerts to caregivers speed response and minimizes potentially dangerous situations for residents.

"With the addition of intercom and overhead paging staff can be available to their residents from anywhere in the facility," states Myles Cochran, Director of Marketing at Jeron Electronic Systems, Inc. When residents are attended to in a timely manner, the everyday experiences for both staff and residents improve dramatically. Pro-Alert 570 Nurse Call assists in that attentiveness and provides critical life safety emergency signaling all at the same time."
